A VICTORIAN TRADITION

Afternoon Tea began as an unhurried pause between lunch and dinner, later becoming a social ritual enjoyed in Victorian drawing rooms across Britain.

At Kensington Tea Room, the tradition is served in a setting that still carries that character — an 1870 townhouse lounge with original features, fireplace and quiet period charm.

TEA SELECTION

A selection of fine loose-leaf teas is available.

Popular choices include

English Breakfast, Earl Grey, Assam, Jasmine with Flowers and Sencha Green Tea.

OUR SETTING

Set on Holland Road, Kensington Tea Room forms part of a family-run hotel established in the 1950s.

With its original staircase, fireplace and period décor, the house offers a calm setting in which to pause, gather and enjoy one of Britain's most cherished traditions.
