THE MILESTONE HOTEL & RESIDENCES

TRADITIONAL AFTERNOON TEA

Afternoon Tea, a beloved British tradition, first emerged in the early 19th century when Anna, Duchess of Bedford, introduced the ritual to bridge the long hours between luncheon and dinner. What began as a simple refreshment soon became a refined social occasion, complete with silver teapots, delicate china, and tiered cake stands - a symbol of elegance embraced by fashionable hotels during its golden age.

Indulge in the timeless elegance of Afternoon Tea at The Milestone Hotel, where every visit is enriched by the rich history woven into our 19th-century Kensington residence. We take great pride in preserving the tradition of this quintessentially British ritual, serving classic favourites alongside delicate pastries and freshly baked scones, all lovingly crafted by our expert team. It is our passion for tradition that makes Afternoon Tea at The Milestone a truly memorable experience.
